

Blockchain can be utilized through smart contracts to better calculate, track and report on the reduction of the carbon footprint across the entire value chain

Innovations in blockchain technologies are powerful enablers for collective action to fight climate

Blockchain technologies can transform individual efforts of companies into a networked effort.

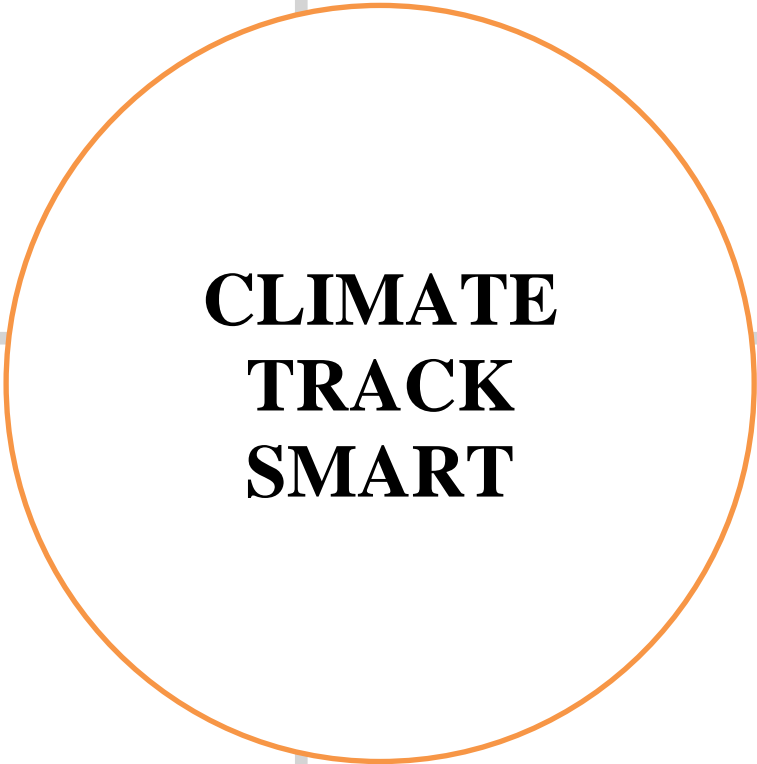

The decentralized approach of blockchain provides both breadth and depth

I wonder if this will help Public and private investors are starting to take notice of their unique value.

This application developing partnerships with strategic partners

Says

Thinks

Choose an application for tracking climate change

Download and install the app.

Measure your emission

Frustrated with promoting the development and adoption of blockchain technologies

Anxious about developing technical assistance and investment

Curious about supporting the strengthening of the clean technology

Does

Feels

See an example